Tangled in Lines Sexton died late Saturday afternoon in an accident on his brother's farm at Dale. He was driving a team of horses to the barn after doing some plowing when, it is believed, the horses became frightened and ran, Sexton getting tangled up in the lines. The horses dashed towards the barn and pulled out about 30 rods of fence. Sexton's head struck a fence post causing the fracture which resulted in his death. He was found by Steve Preiser, a neighbor, who took him to a physician. Sexton did not regain consciousness.

He was born at Chicago and lived in Hortonville and vicinity for the last 40 years.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Flanagan, Appleton, and Mrs. Mary Look, Weyauwega; and three brothers, James and Martin, Dale, and Dr. Francis Sexton, Clintonville.

The funeral will be held at 9:30 Wednesday morning at the home of the brother, James, with services at 10 o'clock at the St. Peter and Paul church, Hortonville. The Rev. Theodore Kolbe will be in charge with burial in the parish cemetery.

Car Tips Over Judson was killed and his five companions injured when the car in which they were riding at 2 o'clock Sunday morning failed to negotiate a curve on County Trunk EZ, Waupaca county, near Bear Lake.

The car was owned and driven by Lawrence Krause, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Krause, Weyauwega. Accompanying him are Luedtke, Mr. Puchatzka and the Misses Lillian and Cecelia Meyers.

The party had just left Testin's tavern at Manawa, and was headed

Ask Voluntary Control Under U.S. Farm Bill

Tobacco Only Exception Under Tentative Committee Program

FOR SOIL PAYMENTS

Some Form of Tariff Equalizing Taxes Is Advocated

Washington—(AP)—The house agriculture committee agreed today on the principle of voluntary control of wheat, cotton, and rice crops in the new farm bill.

Chairman Jones (D-Texas) said the group also has virtually accepted a proposal for compulsory control of tobacco.

The question of compulsory or voluntary regulation of crop reduction has been one of the most controversial before the committee, which is drafting a bill for presentation at the special session of congress Nov. 15.

The skeleton bill outlined by Jones also provides for continuation of soil conservation payments, financing of new program by some form of tariff equalizing taxes, and setting up marketing quotas in emergencies.

While the bill in many respects is a measure already drawn by Representative Flannagan (D-Va.) providing for compulsory crop control, the Flannagan bill would operate chiefly by means of marketing quotas and the imposition of penalties on farmers selling crops in excess of those quotas.

Penalizes Buyers Committee members said the tobacco control system under consideration would place penalties of 50 per cent of the value on buyers of surplus tobacco rather than on the farmer.

Some sentiment was said to have developed for similar penalties for peanuts and potatoes.

The difficulty of drafting provisions for control remained one of the major problems.

Eighty-five per cent of the corn produced is fed to stock and poultry without leaving the country in which it is grown. This factor presents a difficult problem of control and taxation, if processing levies are to be imposed.

While the house committee proceeded with drawing a bill largely on the basis of voluntary control, one member of the senate agriculture committee said a majority of farmers wanted compulsory control.

Senator Ellender (D-La.) said sentiment in the south was largely for compulsory control, but the northwest many farmers felt voluntary control would bring the same results.

Jap Admiral Apologizes to U.S. Marines

Tells American Commander of Foray Will Not Be Repeated

7,000 INVOLVED

Nipponese Force in Attack On U. S. Side of Soochow Creek

Shanghai—(AP)—Japanese Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa apologized today to the United States marine commander who protested against a Japanese foray on the American-protected side of Soochow creek.

A party of Japanese bluejackets had crossed the creek to the American side, where the International Settlement in a rice-laden junk seized after scaring off the Chinese crew by firing blank shots.

Brigadier General John C. Beaumont, marine commander in Shanghai, protested to Hasegawa, who apologized and promised there would not be a recurrence of the incident.

The apology came as 7,000 Japanese shock troops under cover of a thunderous artillery barrage, crossed Soochow creek west of Shanghai. Closer to the settlement Japanese used the Chinese junk and other craft to negotiate the creek and attack Chinese positions along the south bank.

Refuses to Withdraw As Japanese attempted to blast their way into Chinese positions and encircle Shanghai, Major General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, commander of British troops, refused to withdraw his soldiers from outposts in western sections of the city.

In answer to Japanese disclosure that Chinese machine gun nests near British positions along the Shanghai-Hangchow railway would be subjected to intense bombardment, Telfer-Smollett ordered British union jacks flown over all British dugouts and sandbag barriers.

He served notice that the British would hold their lines regardless of eventualities.

Tension between Japanese and British troops became more acute, with British blaming Japanese for 10 casualties, including 5 deaths, suffered by their forces in Shanghai thus far.

While Japanese planes dropped bombs dangerously near British outposts on a neighboring battlefield, four Irish soldiers killed by

U. S. Expected to Lead Efforts to End Strife In Far East, Eden Says

Tammany Hall and CIO in Bids for Power at Polls In Tomorrow's Elections

Washington—(AP)—Scattered off-year elections will take place tomorrow in 15 states, but national interest will center on the bids of two organizations—old Tammany hall and young CIO—for new political power.

Tammany is fighting to regain its old prestige in New York city's election of a mayor and New York county district attorney.

The CIO is opposing Tammany on the New York front by backing Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, but its major bid for power is being made in Detroit, where it is running candidates for mayor and the city council. Victory would give it political control of a large city for the first time.

Mayor LaGuardia, whose sweep four years ago left Tammany almost powerless, is seeking reelection with Republican, Fusion, American Labor Party, and Communist backing.

The Democratic candidate is Jeremiah T. Mahoney, former New York Supreme court justice and former Tammany district leader. He has the support of Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley and Senator Robert F. Wagner.

No National Issue Because both candidates are Roosevelt supporters, the election will not have special significance from a national political standpoint. LaGuardia's backers have sought to make Tammany the issue. Mahoney has retaliated with the contention the mayor had "red" backing.

Tammany's power is also at stake in the battle for district attorney of New York county (Manhattan). It is running Harold Hastings, chief assistant district attorney, against Thomas E. Dewey, racket prosecutor, who is backed by the LaGuardia forces.

In the Detroit election, a non-partisan affair, Patrick H. O'Brien is the CIO candidate for mayor. His opponent, Richard W. Reading, unaffiliated, has the backing of part of the American Federation of Labor.

Five officials of the United Automobile Workers of America, a CIO affiliate, are among 18 nominees for the Detroit city council.

Name 2 Governors Aside from these two municipal elections, voters tomorrow will choose two governors, four congressmen, a half dozen state legislators, and officials in about 30 cities.

In New Jersey, Senator A. Harry Moore, twice governor, is running for that office again amid forecasts that a victory would project him into the race for Democratic presidential nominee in 1940.

His Republican opponent, State Senator Lester H. Clee, a Newark clergyman, might figure in the national political picture if he defeats Moore. His immediate objective is to save one of the seven governor's chairs still held by Republicans.

The other gubernatorial election is in normally Democratic Virginia.

Britain Will Go Exactly As Far As America Does

ASKS COOPERATION Won't 'Rush to Front' But Won't be 'Left Behind'

London—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told commons today that Britain will go exactly as far as the United States in seeking an end to the Chinese-Japanese conflict at the Brussels nine-power conference which opens Wednesday.

Making clear that the United States is expected to take the lead in any definite action to control the Far Eastern threat to world peace, Eden said that Britain is prepared: "To go as far as the United States, in full agreement with them—not rushing in front, but not being left behind."

The foreign secretary, who will head the British delegation to Brussels, gave the Far Eastern situation front rank in a frank pronouncement covering the whole international field.

He also curtly tossed back Italy's bid for a return of Britain's wartime colonial mandates to Germany and upheld the government's course in the Mediterranean and Spain.

U. S. "Initiative" The United States, he said, took the initiative in convoking the nine power conference and any action on the Far East "essentially depended on the cooperation of the United States."

"We realize that with conditions as they are in the world today," Eden continued, "that we must realize the difficulties of the Far Eastern situation. I assure the house that it is in this spirit that I go to Brussels, anxious to contribute what little lies in my power in a situation in which no one can envy a foreign secretary today."

Before taking her own line, as his keynote, Eden, however, stated that "we accept cooperation from all, but dictation from none."

As for the nine-power conference, he asserted: "I feel I ought to make it quite plain that the initiative for holding the conference in Brussels never came from us, at all, but from the United States government itself."

"Vital Difference" Eden stressed that there was a "vital" difference in the United States position as an observer, when the league considered the Chinese-Japanese conflict, and their coming role at Brussels where they would be cooperating "on an equal basis" with other powers.

"Any act, whatever the character of the act, that can be taken in the Far Eastern dispute does essentially depend on cooperation of the United States of America," he said.

"I say without hesitation," he added, "that in order to get full cooperation, on an equal basis, of the United States government in the international conference, I would travel not only from Geneva to Brussels, but from Melbourne to Alaska—the more particularly in the present situation of international affairs."

Eden, speaking in foreign affairs debate, dealt with the far Eastern crisis, Germany's desire for return of war-lost colonies and with piracy at sea growing from the Spanish civil war.

Replies to Italy The foreign secretary advised Italy flatly, amid commons cheers, that she need not expect the return of colonies to Germany, while Premier Mussolini keeps territory which Italy won in the war.

Thus, with what he described as his own "appalling frankness," Eden answered Premier Mussolini's urging in his address last week, that Germany get back a "place in the African sun."

Italy, he said, was a consequence of the World War.

Supplies for Spain Of Spain, Eden bluntly told opposition members of the parliament that the Nyon accord to combat piracy had resulted in facilitating "the arrival of very large quantities of material at Spanish government ports."

The house no doubt will have observed, during recent days," Eden

Roosevelt Facing Many Problems as Extra Term Nears

Party Threatened With Split on First Anniversary of Relection

Washington (P)—The first anniversary Wednesday of President Roosevelt's reelection will find the chief executive facing political problems unforeseen at the time of his victory.

The Democratic party, which in 1936 confidently counted the biggest party following in history, is threatened with an internal split. Its members are uncertain whether they will be fighting shoulder to shoulder or face to face in 1938 and 1940.

The Republican party, overwhelmed and almost knocked out a year ago, is rallying for a new fight, although it faces internal troubles.

A record-breaking Democratic majority in congress last year watched the industrial index rise and apparently was ready to enact the president's recommendations.

Indices Decline

This week the president is preparing for a special session of congress at a time when industrial indices are dropping. Administration leaders are uncertain whether the huge congressional majorities will approve the president's program or kick it overboard.

Some congressional leaders who campaigned with the president in 1936 are off the reservation now. The president's legislative chieftain of a year ago—Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas—is dead.

Organized labor, credited with a large part in Mr. Roosevelt's reelection, is so deeply split that one faction is fighting the other's political candidates.

Despite all these developments, the president's supporters contend he has as much strength as ever among the rank and file of voters. Some are talking of supporting him for a third term.

Some of the Roosevelt leaders in congress are forecasting that the party rift which developed last session will disappear with the approach of next year's congressional elections. Also encouraging to them are negotiations for settlement of labor's dispute.

Court Bill Came

Looking back over the trouble-crowded year, Democratic chieftains could trace many of their difficulties to a single cause—the president's court bill.

Mr. Roosevelt took the most decisive bearing of his presidential career when the bill was sidetracked in the senate. The Democratic senator talked publicly of defeating party colleagues.

The president appointed one of the bill's most ardent supporters—Senator Black of Alabama—to the supreme court. The ensuing conflict echoed long after congressional adjournment and brought disclosure that Black once had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

A sectional split over wage-hour legislation and senate leadership complicated Democratic differences. Senator Harrison of Mississippi, one of the president's most trusted lieutenants, was among those opposing the bill.

Financial distress in recess, Democratic differences in congress, conspicuous. But almost at once the president found new troubles in an unsettled stock market and indications of a business recession, which among other things threw the federal budget further out of balance.

Mythical Large Fish in Lake Winnebago Ate Moose

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison — Fragments of a culture which belonged to the Indians who roamed Wisconsin when it was yet a primeval wilderness are being slowly and carefully collected by a corps of researchers working on the Federal Writers' project.

Charles E. Brown, director of the Wisconsin Historical Museum.

A recent booklet by the folklore section of the writers' project tells of the aboriginal legends attached to many of the best known spots in Wisconsin.

For instance there were the water monsters which the Indians formerly believed inhabited Lake Winnebago, Chain of Lakes at Waupaca, Shawano Lake, Poygan Lake, and many other lakes and streams.

Centuries Old

Says Dorothy M. Brown, one of the students of the Indian legends, "No one knows how old some of these myths may be. Doubtless most of them go back into the past of a hundred years, several hundred years, or an even longer period of time. All of our Wisconsin tribesmen are to have firmly believed that in many lakes and water courses in their tribal domain and hunting grounds all over Wisconsin there were present animal water monsters of a very strange and destructive nature."

Water Spirits

In passing over by waters believed or known to be inhabited by these water spirits, Indians sometimes paused to cast handfuls of kinnikinnick, or Indian tobacco, on their surfaces to quiet and obtain the good will of these denizens. Such strange proceedings have been mentioned by early French fur traders and other travelers and were also told to them by the Indians themselves.

Men in the many legends collected in the one perpetuated by the Menominee of Sturgeon Bay below, and to her death.

May Convert Home Into City Museum

Alderman Franzke Suggests Zuehlke Property Be Given to Park Board

A resolution that the old Zuehlke home be turned over to the park board to be used as a city museum will be submitted by Alderman Franzke to the common council when it meets at 7:30 Wednesday evening in city hall.

The board of public works opened bids on the home last week and found the highest offer for the Prospect avenue home to be $400. The city originally paid $12,000 for the home and about an acre of land.

The house was sold to Mrs. Gertrude Heibel for $10,010 with the understanding that it would be moved from the property. The money was returned when it was discovered the home could not be moved without destroying trees in its path.

Suggested plans for the proposed museum include the collection of relics of the Indian era in the Fox River Valley as well as an museum piece of local interest.

Victim of Rare Disease Keeps Busy With Hobbies

Milwaukee (P)—Seventeen-year-old Eugene Bonin reclines on his cot at County General Hospital, his hands busy with model locomotives and airplanes, but his thoughts in the hospital laboratory where a certain guinea pig means a great deal to him.

Gene has been bedridden for two years with osteomyelitis, a rare infection of the bones which has centralized in his case in both arms and both legs. It destroys the bone tissue, endangering the normal functioning of the articular processes.

The guinea pig has been infected with germs from Gene's body. "I hope the guinea pig doesn't die," sighs Gene, his hands busy with the skeleton framework of a tiny plane. The little laboratory hero may be able to return to Gene a serum which may mean release from a life which has been pretty much all operations and blood transfusions.

The motherless boy and his father, Mike, a Milwaukee city truck driver, believe his troubles started during the high school track season two years ago last spring. Gene a hurdler, was bruised and scratched by a spill on the cinders. In the fall, he developed a limp to favor one leg.

Then it was discovered there was an abscess in the bone. It had to be scraped, but the trouble spread.

Gene began his hobbies to fill up the time. In fact, he can scarcely keep up with them all. Besides the miniature models, he has a large stamp collection, and he reads chemistry to make up for his lost school time. He had finished his second year in high school.

Working on the trains is comparatively simple, since the parts, although of surprising number, come already turned. The planes call for more advanced work. The light balsam wood is cut according to pattern, and the plane's ribs must be cut the proper lengths. Then, the entire frame must be glued together and covered with special paper.

The trains begin with the first two used in this country and skip through the Civil war to the present day. From following patterns for the planes, Gene has graduated to models of his own, including a two-inch wartime French Spad and a Chinese mailplane which light up inside.

His stamp collection includes 3,000 foreign; 250 Americans, 200 pre-cancelations, 200 miscellaneous cancellations, and 75 first-day covers. Gene's oldest brother, Robert, an ensign on the U.S.S. Mississippi, supplies him with many of the foreign stamps.

Run of Bad Luck

The boy's affliction is a sample of the luck—mostly bad—that the Boninis have had since the wife and mother died eight years ago. The family had to be broken up, and two of the four boys and the two girls—Virginia and Dorothy, now 13 and 15—were placed in homes for children.

Mike Bonin had just outfitted the two boys in new clothes so they would feel like they were "somebody" at the institution when a dormitory burned down and they were rescued in their underwear. There also has been more than the usual number of broken arms and legs in the family.

But the luck hasn't been all bad. Robert, the ensign, won a scholarship to the University of Marquette, and eventually got into the United States naval academy. Daniel, the next oldest, won a scholarship to the University of Chicago. Although right now he is attending Marquette, Richard, the remaining boy, is making his own way as a machinist.

Mike manages to remain philosophical, and keep an eye to the future. His is a long-lived family. A grandmother lived to be 103. She died without a thing being wrong with her, just all tired out from living so long.

Flashes of Life

Rochester, Ind. — "Aunt Ella" McIntyre, 76, and partially blind, was more philosophical than police about the Halloween pranksters who visited her small farm home.

She awoke to find several sheaves of corn fodder on her roof. Her driver, a supply of coal had been stolen. Then she stepped out the back door and took a tumble because the steps had been removed. "Well, I was young once," she said.

About Face

Wilmington, N. C. — Policemen cruising in a patrol car thought the voice coming over the radio told them to "pick up a drunk." They investigated—then beat a quick retreat. The voice at the microphone actually had said, "Pick up a skunk."

Halloween Pranks Cause No Serious Damage in Appleton

A full police force which was on duty throughout the night evidently discouraged mischievous pranksters and a quiet Halloween resulted. No reports of serious damage to property were reported, according to Chief of Police George T. Prim.

There was the usual soaping of windows and a number of residents had to clean their porches of rocks and stones, but no serious acts of vandalism were reported. Youngsters caught soaping windows or tossing stones were reprimanded by patrolmen and ordered home.

A group of youths on State street put forth their efforts in hauling an old bed spring from a dump and were preparing to leave it on a sidewalk when they were discovered by a patrolman. They redoubled their efforts in taking the spring back to the dump.

Appleton Doctors Given Degrees by Surgeons College

Dr. G. T. Hegner and Dr. D. M. Gallaher Honored at Conclave

Two Appleton physicians were among the 250 doctors from all parts of the world who received a Fellow of American College of Surgeons degree at the annual conference of the college last week at Chicago. They are Dr. G. T. Hegner and Dr. D. M. Gallaher.

Among the physicians and surgeons receiving degrees were some from China, Egypt and Persia.

Dr. Hegner has been practicing medicine in Appleton for the last 25 years. He was born in the village of Eden, Fond du Lac county, in 1887 and received his primary education in Cudahy.

He attended Marquette academy where he received his pre-medical education and he got his doctor's degree at Marquette university in 1909. Dr. Hegner interned at Milwaukee County hospital in 1909 and 1910 and was house surgeon at the Johnson Emergency hospital during 1911 and 1912.

He came to Appleton in November, 1912, and started his present practice. He has been a member of the executive staff at St. Elizabeth hospital since its beginning and is an active member of the staff.

Heads Alumni Group

Dr. Hegner is president of the medical alumni group of Marquette university and is a member of Alpha Kappa Kappa, international medical fraternity. He also is a member of the Outagamie County Medical society and for the last four years has been a member of the Appleton board of education.

Dr. Gallaher was born in Galena, Ill., in 1896 and moved with his family to Arlington, Ia., when six years old. He attended grade and high school at Arlington and then entered Iowa university, completing his course and enlisting in the United States army and spent a year on the Mexican border. He also served a year during the World war. His years in service were with the engineering corps.

Returning to the university, Dr. Gallaher received his A. B. and M. D. degrees in 1923, and then interned at Miller hospital, St. Paul, for 15 months. He began practice at Kaukauna in 1923 and after a year and a half went to Barnes hospital at the Washington university in St. Louis for post-graduate work. He has been practicing in Appleton for the last eight years, and is a member of the Outagamie County Medical society.

High Temperatures Will Age Hams in Six to Ten Weeks

In line with present day tendencies to hurry nature, state and federal workers have found a way to produce "aged" hams in six to ten weeks instead of the customary year or two. R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent, has been informed.

Studies were made by the Maryland Agricultural Experiment station in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture.

In rural districts of the south, hams are aged for a year or more after they are cured and smoked. During this time they become partially dry and develop characteristic flavors. The lean meat has a sharp, pungent, cheesy flavor, and the fat is modified so that it becomes semi-transparent.

The Maryland workers discovered a method of producing some of these characteristic flavors in hams in a relatively short time—six to ten weeks—by holding them at temperatures from 107 to 125 degrees F. after curing and smoking. The aroma and flavor of these hams increased with aging up to 10 weeks.

Chemical studies of these quickly aged hams showed that there was an increase in the free fatty acids of the fat; that there was an increase in total soluble derivatives of protein; and that there was loss of moisture from the lean tissues. These changes are characteristic of the aging process in hams.

Pond Will be Used To Propagate Bass

State Conservation Department Will Use Sturgeon Bay Facilities

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Assemblyman Frank N. Grass, Sturgeon Bay, Saturday was informed by H. W. McKenzie, conservation department director, that the pond, which will be used for the improvement of the Sturgeon Bay bass pond and that the pond will be used by the state for the propagation of small mouth bass.

The property was given to the conservation department by the city of Sturgeon Bay some years ago, according to the Door county assemblyman, and was partially improved by WPA labor recently.

The conservation department Saturday invited bids on the job of excavating 40,000 feet of material in the pond, although actual work will not be begun until after the winter season.

According to McKenzie the pond will be a valuable addition to the department's small mouth bass propagation facilities. The state now maintains several establishments for the raising of large mouth bass, but there has been a serious shortage of the other species, McKenzie pointed out.

Grass has been trying for several years to obtain approval for restoration of the pond.

Depression May Bring End to New Deal Economics

Lawrence Says President Adhering to Theory Unsuccessful in Past

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—President Roosevelt is still gambling on the success of an economic theory which never in world history has ever succeeded—the theory that national income can be materially increased by less work and more money.

The president's press conference of last Friday is the most important happening since the present business decline set in last summer. It is important because it reveals that Mr. Roosevelt does not know when he is defeated—he didn't know that he had lost the supreme court fight for example, six months before the final roll call. The handwriting on the wall tells of the impending defeat of New Deal economics by a severe business depression.

Today the president faces the necessity of reversing his economic policies. Statesmen frankly acknowledge error and retreat and so do great generals. Will Mr. Roosevelt turn about and save America the two-thirds who are "ill-bred, ill-clad and ill-nourished"? Or must there be more breadlines, more panic, and more depression before America's economic dictator will swallow pride and abandon the so-called economists who have been misleading him, on radio, leading him from one morose into another.

The president's position, as revealed in his press conference last Friday, was that he was not thinking of tax revisions, but of moving the national income up to the fantastic heights of $90,000,000,000 and $100,000,000,000. This reference to such a huge national income is familiar, indeed, to those who have followed New Deal strategy. The Roosevelt idea is that the present tax burden is too burdensome and that it can be still further increased by moving the national income up.

The onerous methods of increasing national income—more working or being permitted to work. Mr. Roosevelt has the choice of continuing the pump priming with federal funds or resorting to more inflation or letting private industry expand.

Unbalanced Budgets
The first two courses mean a continuance of unbalanced budgets. The third course means an equitable tax revision. While the president is non-committal about tax plans, what he did say last Friday would seem to indicate that he still thinks in terms of the first two plans—moving up the national income by artificial inflationary device.

Repeating the analysis of what is happening today as presented by the Brookings institution—comprising the most eminent group of economists in America—in a book entitled, "The Recovery Problem in the United States," which was published last January. Here is an all-around except that throws light on the government policies of the hour.

The possibility of a serious breakdown of government finance still exists. We are still gambling, so to speak, upon a sufficiently rapid growth in national income to permit a balancing of the budget before confidence in the credit of the government wanes. The continued inability of the treasury to obtain all the funds required at low rates of interest has given rise to a false sense of security. We are working on a very narrow margin; and adverse developments could quickly upset all present calculations.

There is always a tendency when the government is in business or public finance, to reach an acute stage, to exaggerate, if indeed they are not altogether fanciful. Whether the present fiscal situation will lead to a breakdown of government credit and a disastrous period of inflation, no one can predict with certainty. One may fairly conclude, however, that though the task of establishing financial stability is not unmountable, it is one which cannot be taken lightly.

Unhappily, the president is taking the situation lightly. He never says a word about increased output, but emphasizes that the government is working on a very narrow margin; and adverse developments could quickly upset all present calculations.

Faces Trial Nov. 6 on Drunken Driving Charge
Waupaca—John Thomas was arrested in Waupaca Saturday afternoon by Sheriff D. R. Campbell and taken before Justice of the Peace M. B. Scott on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated. Thomas pleaded not guilty and trial was set for 2 o'clock Saturday Nov. 6 before Justice Scott. Unable to furnish bail, he was lodged in the county jail.

Greater Demand Anticipated for Farm Implements

Perkins Says Manufacturers Increasing Production

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Anticipating an increased farm income, according to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, manufacturers of farm implements in Wisconsin and elsewhere are increasing production to meet the expected greater demand.

This has resulted, statistics reveal, in an increase in employment and payrolls in that industry for the month of September over August, and a much larger increase over September 1936.

The expected increase in demand for agricultural implements has placed that industry well to the foreground among those whose employment and payroll figures for September are well above the average for the base period, 1923-25.

For every 1,000 employed in the period in that industry, 1,472 were employed in September, and for every $1,000 in wages paid the base period $1,892 was paid in September, according to the Labor department.

Substantial Gain
The highly seasonal canning and preserving industry showed a substantial gain over August in both employment and payrolls, and one of the largest increases reported over the base period average. For every 1,000 employees in the base period, in September there were 3,100, and for every $1,000 paid in wages in 1923-25, in September $3,057 was paid, the Labor Department reports.

Among industries of interest to Appleton which reported employment and payrolls in September are the 1923-25 average are paper and pulp—1,077, $1,038; paper boxes—1,029, $1,034; automobiles, 1,123, $1,034.

Under 1923-25 Average
Among industries of particular interest, Wisconsin for which employment and payrolls in September were both below the 1923-25 average are butter, lumber and allied products, furniture, millwork, sawmills, leather and its manufactures, including boots and shoes, beet sugar, tobacco manufactures, and tools.

Such manufacturing industries as electrical machinery, machinery not including transportation equipment, wirework and machine tools are reported substantial increases in both employment and payrolls over the base period average.

Reports of 2,246 establishments in Wisconsin showed 255,491 on their payrolls in September, and increase of 22.2 per cent over August, and $6,242,206 in payrolls, a decrease of 2.2 per cent from the August figure.

Secretary Perkins disclosed that employment in combined manufacturing industries in September showed a gain over the preceding month and was greater than in any month of this year, while weekly payrolls in general showed a decrease. The former she attributed to seasonal increases in wholesale and retail trade. The latter she said was largely due to Labor Day shutdowns.

MOTHER KILLS FIVE CHILDREN, SELF IN FIT OF DESPONDENCY
Undertakers assistants are shown here loading the body of Mrs. G. R. McAnich, 35, into the hearse at her home near Norwalk, Iowa, after she shot and killed five of her seven children and herself in a fit of despondency. Her husband was in a Des Moines jail at the time of the tragedy.

Offer Assistance In Buying Shrubs Free of Diseases

Agents Selling Nursery Stock Should Show License, Entomologist Says

When buying nursery stock Wisconsin residents should take advantage of the protection offered by the department of agriculture and markets against the purchase of diseased trees and shrubs, E. L. Chambers, state entomologist, suggested today in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

Through nursery inspection service, the department strives to protect buyers from being sold trees or shrubs that are diseased, untrue to name, or misrepresented as to hardiness. Chambers said, adding that by cooperating with the department in insisting on this protection, the buyer protects the rest of the state as well as his own trees and shrubs against the spread of dangerous diseases.

All nurseries in the state are inspected at least once a year, and all of the stock carefully examined. Any stock found infected with dangerous diseases such as elm and poplar cankers and the various mosaic diseases, or infested with injurious insects such as the poplar and birch borers, San Jose scale, elm scale, and other similarly dangerous diseases, are immediately destroyed. One-half of the cost of this inspection is paid by the nursery.

All agents are required to carry an agent's license, and anyone buying nursery stock from an agent should insist on seeing the license. All stores handling nursery stock are likewise required to take out a license and attach an inspection tag to each bundle of nursery stock sold or distributed by them. Stores are required to furnish a sworn statement of all the sources from which they purchase nursery stock, and these sources are investigated carefully before the dealer's license is issued. Only carefully inspected stock is permitted to be sold.

The state nursery inspection law provides that no trees, shrubs, or other nursery stock shall be sold, distributed, or moved without inspection. The statute carries a heavy penalty for violations of these provisions. Many serious insects and disease outbreaks have been directly traceable to the movement of uninspected nursery stock in the past, according to Chambers.

Road Relocation Surveys Planned

Project Calls for Elimination of Old Bridge Over Rail Tracks

Waupaca—Surveys are to start at once for the relocation of Highway 49, according to Highway Commissioner Charles Larson, to eliminate the old wooden bridge over the Soo railroad tracks. If the appropriation is granted by Congress for the project, the next one on the Soo line will be built in Waupaca. This has been hanging fire for three or four years, Mr. Larson said, due to the fact that relocation has been connected with programs of both Highways 49 and 10. The actual building, however, will come before 1938. The cost will be approximately $100,000.

Two other surveys are now in progress, one for a bridge on Highway 49 one and one-half miles from Scandinavia, to replace an old, narrow one obscured by a curve in the highway. The other project is for stop and go lights on two crossings, both dangerous, and the scene of several fatalities—on Highway 45 between New London and Clintonville, and the other at the junction of 54 and 22 at Bear Lake corners.

What's New at the Library

Reminiscent of the book, "100,000,000 Guinea Pigs" which created such a furor a couple of years ago, is a new volume entitled "40,000,000 Guinea Pig Children" by Rachel Lynn Palmer and Isador M. Alpher, M. D., recently received at Appleton Public library. The book contends that as the result of exploitation by commercial interests, exploitation which goes far beyond that of adults as revealed in the first "Guinea Pig" book, more than one-third of all children suffer from malnutrition. This condition, it maintains, is not confined to poverty-stricken homes but is found in the better homes and comes not from a lack of food but from lack of the right foods because children and their mothers believe what advertisers tell them.

The story of industrial espionage is told in "Spy Overhead" by Clifton Calkins, another new book at the library. It tells of the American industrial worker caught in a trap of commercialized espionage and violence. An odd assortment of evidence which has found its way into the files of the LaFollette committee, secretly mailed requests to the president of the department of justice for bodily protection, income tax reports, testimony of industrial spies, labor organizers, detectives and others are related here.

Those charming youngsters, the Abbe children, whose earlier book was so widely and enthusiastically received, have published a second volume entitled "Of All Places." It gives their observations on Hollywood, city of the stars.

Thomas Benton, whose pictorial interpretation of contemporary American life stands as a unique achievement, is the author of a new book, "An Artist in America," which tells of his early life in Missouri, experiences in Paris where he studied, and his return to America. He describes his adventures along the Mississippi, in the cotton fields of the south, in the Ozark mountains, book towns of the oil lands and in the farming regions as well as in New York. The book contains 64 two-color reproductions of his drawings.

"Making Amateur Photography Pay" is the title of a book by A. J. Erickson who tells the amateur camera devotee how and where to sell his pictures. It is illustrated with the type of pictures editors prefer and has an introduction by Willard D. Morgan, contributions editor of Life magazine.

A group of German economists who, for obvious reasons remain anonymous, provide an account of German governmental expenditures for the last four years in a book entitled "Germany, the Last Four Years" by "Germanicus." They give an accurate picture of the economic situation under Nazi rule. Of particular interest is the study of German expenditures for rearmament and of the present condition of the German military machine.

"When Labor Organizes" by Robert R. Brooks gives a picture of attack and counter-attack on the labor front as well as an account of cooperation between labor and capital where there has been any. It purports to give the facts behind the LaFollette Committee investigations, behind the headlines of Harlan county and Remington Island and the split between the American Federation of Labor and the C.I.O. The author is assistant professor of economics at Williams college and has been instructor in industrial relations at Yale university.

Feeling that science already had enough specimens and that what it needed was knowledge of living animals gained in their natural surroundings, Ivan T. Sanderson, author of "Animal Treasure," decided to organize an expedition which would make use of a field laboratory set up on a mobile basis. Barely out of his teens, he became leader of the Percy Sladen expedition to the British Caecons, West Africa.

Fields Juggles for Young Reporter During Interview

Editor's Note: Brian Bell, Jr., 11-year old son of Brian Bell, western division news editor of The Associated Press, who interviewed three motion picture stars last spring, has made another visit to Hollywood. This time he talked to some of the stars and landed in a fun of the stars and restaurant. This is the first of a series of four articles in which he tells what he saw and heard.

BY BRIAN BELL, JR.
Hollywood—(AP)—W. C. Fields, the famous comedian, did something for me that very few of his motion picture fans see nowadays. He juggled.

Mr. Fields was a famous juggler in his early days and I had heard a lot about his juggling. So, my first question was to ask him how he learned.

"When I was a boy," he replied, "I was very lazy and did not like to get up in the morning. So I decided I would follow a profession that did not call for me to get up early. I picked the stage; and since I could not go on the stage without an act, I took up juggling."

I wanted to say "show me," but I did not feel like coming right out with it. But he volunteered to try without my asking.

The interview was taking place at his home in Bel-Air, so he called his butler and asked him if he could find any tennis balls. The butler brought in four balls, all there were available.

Mr. Fields said he had not juggled in a long time and was not sure he could, but he had no trouble keeping all four in the air. He became so engrossed he went on for 15 minutes. I was sorry the butler could not find more balls, as Mr. Fields said at one time he could keep seven going. But he said it was just as well since he was out of practice and had a sore wrist and could not have handled any more.

Mr. Fields has made two trips around the world. Once he was in Australia when he received an offer to appear in the United States. He took the first boat and was home in 32 days. He appeared at only one performance and was told his services were no longer required.

To be "fired" after traveling 32 days to take a job was a shock, but Mr. Fields said it turned out all right, for a scout for the Ziegfeld Follies saw him in his one appearance and signed him up for the big New York show. Mr. Fields did not say so, but I know he became a great star in New York.

I had heard Charlie McCarthy, the ventriloquist's dummy, telling on the radio about Mr. Fields' red nose. When I was introduced I looked for this "beacon," as Charlie called it, but it was not very red.

I asked Mr. Fields how he really felt about Charlie McCarthy. "You know," he said, "when you work with the little pest you almost think of him as a human being."

Cracks a Joke
Mr. Fields likes to make wisecracks. I asked him about his early life, and he said:

"I was born in Philadelphia and had one father and one mother, male and female. Then I became a man—they call you a man when you are 21 no matter what you are."

Mr. Fields told me that a performer on the stage, or anybody in business for that matter, can tell how good he is by how well he is paid.

He said:

"If you are paid a great salary, you know you are good. If you get a fair salary, you are pretty good. And if you have to work for nothing, you are rotten."

(Note to Mr. Fields: Brian Bell Jr., is the young man writing this interview.—The Editor.)

Tomorrow Brian Bell, Jr., interviews the Ritz Brothers.

SOME BABY!
they have had one baby of their own. With guns, explosive bullets and floating factories the whalers are killing each year an undiminished number of whales.

But the sizes are getting smaller. This, according to the British colonial office, means that more and more whales are killed before having had time to reproduce. Discovery of the very rapid growth and maturity of the blue whale is a recent fact which experts say points to a limit on whaling. The limit is not so bad as expected, and the life of the blue whale seems to explain why all the whales were not killed long ago.

and in this book he describes rare and unusual animals which he studied in their natural surroundings.

Neenah Observes Quiet Halloween

Few Disturbances Reported as Police Patrol Streets

Neenah—Neenah police and not goblins and witches were about Saturday night, and as a result Neenah had its most tranquil of Halloween celebrations.

No one was arrested, although a few boys were picked up for questioning and then released. In other years the police station was generally filled with boys being severely reprimanded.

Police received and answered only 24 calls, the smallest number taken by the Neenah department in many years, Chief C. H. Wats said. He added that little, if any, actual destruction of property occurred and even evidence of customary window soaping, on which police put a taboo this year, was lacking Sunday morning. A few street signs were turned around and knocked down.

Police were patrolling the city in seven cars besides the squad cars and motorcycles, and the entire force was on duty.

Ranks Neenah High School One of the Best in the State

Neenah—Chester Sanford, vocational counselor, ranked Neenah High school as one of the best in the state in a talk given before an assembly of students in the auditorium this morning.

"The counselor said that modern high schools are ideal in comparison to high schools of former years in that the students must make their own choices, decisions not being made by school officials for the students."

Because of this modern trend in education, it is easier for colleges and industries to select good men and women from high school graduates, he said.

High school students live the same kind of lives when they are out of school as when they are in school as far as habits are concerned," he said. He also added that students ranking in the upper fifth in high school will rank in that position in college as well as during the rest of their life.

Third Grade Pupils Learn How to Prepare Breakfast

Neenah—Boys and girls in Miss Mildred Jennings' third grade class at the Lincoln school joined in preparing and eating the "ideal" breakfast for children Friday morning at the school.

The boys stirred the oatmeal which was cooking over electric stoves while the girls toasted bread, set the table and did other things necessary to concoct the "perfect" initial meal.

The youngsters arrived at school earlier than usual Friday morning, carrying bread, oatmeal, butter, jam, milk, orange juice and table service.

The "health breakfast" was the culminating activity in the class study of its initial unit in health on food. During the course the children learned that proper food habits maintain good health, having menus of foods suitable for growing boys and girls.

Learn Cleanliness
Another idea developed during the course is that proper behavior habits should be practiced while eating and that cleanliness and order are necessary when preparing foods to maintain good health.

The students were divided into committees with each group responsible for the preparation of one part of the "health breakfast." The breakfast was informal and the children apparently enjoyed planning, preparing as well as eating the meal of orange juice, oatmeal, toast, butter, jam and milk.

The various committees were: Oatmeal, Dorothy Lomke, Ann Parmenter, Betty Eake, Donald Blank, Jack Hooper and Edwin Schwandt; Toast, Mardelle Sawyer, Millicent Steigler, Carroll Hutchinson, Melvin Randall, Robert Williams, James Powers, Ralph Mariens and Isabelle Hartfield; Butter, Margie Boppert, Evelyn Lloyd, Charles Littlefield, and David Blank; Sugar, Helen Tomlinson and Kenneth Sorenson; Jam, Mardelle Sawyer, Charles Littlefield and Kenneth Sorenson.

Tammany and CIO In Bids for Power where James H. Price is the Democratic candidate against J. Powell Rogall, Republican.

A three-cornered congressional race in New York city's "silk-stockings" district has attracted most attention. Bruce Barton, advertising executive and author, is the Republican candidate, against Stanley Oserman, Democrat, and George Backer, American Labor Party. The district has gone Democratic in the last three elections, but prior to that was normally Republican.

New York — Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican Fusionist candidate for reelection, whose campaign managers have promised him a plurality in excess of half a million, wound up his campaign today by parading his own schedule to three speeches.

His opponent in tomorrow's election, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, Tammany Democrat, also assured by his campaign managers of victory by more than 250,000 votes, redoubled his last-minute efforts in an oratorical marathon calling for 12 major speeches.

Attesting the high feeling engendered by the campaign, the police department sent out today 31 finely typed pages of instructions among other things, the police were ordered to prevent election night bonfires, to see that nobody peeks at the ballots, and to serve registration fraud warrants only after those named in warrants had voted.

THIEVES SEEK HOLY ROSE Burglars broke into the crypt of the Roman Catholic church near Aldershot, England, in which are the massive tombs of Napoleon III, the Empress Eugenie and their son, Prince Imperial. They are believed to be in quest of the Holy Rose, which is of great sentimental and intrinsic value, being of solid gold. It was presented to Napoleon III by the reigning Pope as a token of esteem and affection. In this the thieves were foiled for the Holy Rose is exhibited only on special occasions and is kept in a secret hiding place. They stole a heavy vase, which was empty.

Chinese fought back furiously to prevent a further breach in their lines as night fell. An American observer behind Chinese front lines reported especially heavy Japanese artillery and air bombardment along Hungjiao road, where several foreign homes were reported hit and 200 Chinese soldiers and villagers killed or wounded.

Constant Air Attack Twelve three-motored Japanese bombers protected by pursuit planes maintained a constant relay attempting to demolish Chinese artillery positions and troop concentrations.

Japanese also subjected Pootung, across the Whangpoo river from Shanghai, to six air raids. The prolonged artillery bombardment covered an area extending four miles west from near the International Settlement border. Japanese planes yesterday strafed Chinese troops throughout the day and several times peppered British outposts with machine gun bullets.

It was disclosed today that British returned the fire three or four times.

Japanese Plans The Japanese had succeeded in crossing Soochow creek at two points — near Rubicon village and near Chuchiakao. Just before noon a Japanese spearhead at Rubicon had established a front 800 yards long both sides of the village. Apparently Japanese had intended to cut a wedge in Chinese lines which ran roughly parallel to the Lincoln road and Hungjiao road, extending west from the International Settlement.

Chinese dispatches said 2,000 Japanese soldiers were wiped out in northern Shansi province and declared one Japanese bomber was shot down in Fukien province and another near Kunshan, west of Shanghai. Chinese asserted a third Japanese bombing plane was shot down near Nanziang, on the Shanghai front.

Over One-Fifth of U. S. Women Holding Down Jobs. Estimate

Washington — (AP) — The women's bureau estimated today that more than one-fifth of the women in the United States are gainfully employed.

More than one-third of this group of 10,752,000 also are homemakers. An estimated one-tenth are the entire support of families of two or more persons; many others assist in supporting families.

Wages in women's jobs invariably are at a lower level than those of men in identical industries.

These conclusions were contained in a report written by Mary Elizabeth Pidgeon bureau research chief, to answer a query from the international labor office at Geneva on the economic status of women in this country.

The report took issue with arguments that employment of women is a cause of unemployment of men, attributing entrance of large numbers of women to gainful occupation to a shift from household to factory manufacture.

"Ordinarily the jobs performed by the two sexes differ, and hence replacement as such does not occur," Miss Pidgeon said.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR INDIGESTION

Question: I have been a chronic sufferer of intestinal indigestion. If I decide to take Chiropractic adjustments, what guarantees have I that you will get me well?

Answer: Every intelligent person demands conclusive proof before he is willing to accept a new science or healing method. Give him undisputable evidence that you are right and he is satisfied.

That's why Chiropractic is being so widely accepted. The reports of patients right here in your own community is rather good proof. A large number of people, many of whom you know, who came here and have been restored to health, should be very good evidence that your case is no different from many others. We mention this as one way whereby you may satisfy yourself with Chiropractic applied scientifically as it is done in this Clinic will do exactly what we claim for it.

We present different cases to show how severe some of them could be and get well under my method. Case record No. 55 — Age 50, weight 111 lbs., gas pressure around heart, no appetite, insomnia, extreme nervousness, gall bladder removed two years ago, loss of weight from 128 lbs. to 111 lbs. under doctor's care constantly, at a hospital, with no improvement, and returned home and was advised by friends to consult me. Entering this Clinic Sept. 10, 1936, and putting herself under my personal supervision over a period of four months at which time she was dismissed, our scientific instruments indicated that the cause which was vertebral misplacement in the neck producing pressure on spinal fibers cutting off the human energy or function to the stomach and gall bladder and predisposed the body to disease. We adjusted the cause.

Last report on this case in Sept. 1937: "I am feeling fine, and have gained fifteen pounds in weight, doing all my housework and I am certainly glad that I came to you."

Declarer Trapped by Smart 2-Diamond Bid

Mr. Culbertson is conducting through this column, a national examination of bridge players. Rate yourself by subtracting from 100 the points for each wrong answer.

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Question 28 appeared Friday. It was:

Question 28: You are West, declarer in a three no trump contract. North opens the three of spades. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

WEST EAST (dummy)
A Q 8 5 5 4
K A 7 Q 3
J 9 5 2 Q 10 8 7 6
K 10 3 A Q 4

South plays the spade king to his partner's three spot. As declarer, how do you play the hand?

Answer: The crux of this hand is to duck and concede the very first trick. Obviously, you must clear the diamond suit in order to make nine tricks. If you capture the spade king and lead a diamond, North, holding one diamond honor, will duck. South will win and clear the spade suit for North, while the latter retains his diamond stopper and entry. If you concede the first trick, you still have two spade tricks. Now, when South continues spades, you win and lead a diamond. If North wins he can clear his spades but never get in again to cash them. If South wins, he has no spade left to return unless North originally opened a four card suit, in which case there is no danger of losing more than two spades and two diamonds. (For failure to play as described, take a two point demerit.)

TODAY'S QUESTION.
Question 29: Neither side vulnerable. You are South, the dealer, and hold:

A 5 3 K 10 9 7 5 3 5 4 J 7

The bidding proceeds:

South West North East
Pass Pass 4 diamonds Pass

What call do you make now?

TODAY'S HAND.
South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable

A 8
K 10 7
K J 7 6 3 2

WEST EAST
A 5 4 A K Q J 6 3 2
K 9 3 2 5 4
Q 7 6 4 A 10
10 4 J 5

SOUTH
A 10 7
A 8 6
K Q J 5
A Q 9

The bidding:
South West North East
1 trump Pass 2 clubs 2 diamonds
2 no trump Pass 3 no trump Double
Pass Pass Pass

Least readers conclude that the two diamond bid recorded above is a typographical error, I hasten to state that East made precisely that bid and that, under the circumstances, it was a beautiful trap. Seldom does a player have such an opportunity. Obviously, East's idea was to bid a suit that the opponents would certainly have well stopped. Thus, they would be lured into a false sense of security and contract for enough no trumps to ruin them. It should be noted that East correctly figured that he himself could not go game. True, he had eight solid tricks, but he would have to pick up two top tricks, in partner's hand, a very unlikely contingency, considering South's vulnerable no trump. South's bidding was, of course, somewhat open to censure since he had no spade stopper. But, in all fairness, I have seen many worse rebids than South made. He could have doubled two diamonds, but the opponents were not vulnerable and he himself was. He had a splendid fit with partner's club bid and it was not unnatural that he found no great menace in the spade situation. The suit had not been bid adversely and there was, of course, a good chance that North had a spade stopper. So much for the bidding!

East was, figuratively, rubbing his hands, waiting for the opening diamond lead when, to his horror, his partner, who had gone into a long huddle, apparently decided that he would make a "surprise attack." "Reasoning" that declarer had diamonds well stopped, West led out the heart queen! East almost had apoplexy as declarer won with the ace and immediately returned a heart toward the king-ten, finesse against the jack. Six club tricks then were run off, while East futilely discarded four of his lovely spades. I cannot report what East said to West!

Old Gardener Says:

The African violet, or Saintpaulia as it is called, if given the proper care, will make a satisfactory flowering house plant. Plants can be purchased from most any florist at this time of year. The most important point in caring for the African violet is to be sure that water never touches the leaves or the crown of the plant. All watering must be done from the bottom. For that reason, the pot should be set in a saucer or on one of the moisture pads now on the market. The soil should be kept continually moist, but not wet. Therefore, it is probably best to allow the water to stand in the saucer for the plants more than an hour a day. The plants should also have about two hours of sun each day and strong light the rest of the time. It is also important to remove flowers as they wither.

My Neighbor Says—

Cut sweet peas will keep much longer in a vase in which there is a little water than they will in one in which a large quantity of water is used.

Spiced apple sauce, made by adding cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg to the regular sauce recipe, is a pleasing accompaniment for pork or ham dishes.

Uncle Ray's Corner

In Shakespeare's Town

1—TWO OLD BUILDINGS
Here I am in Stratford-on-Avon, a little city in central England. In the past years I have been here several times, but I always find new things to interest me.

A view of Shakespeare's birthplace.

Stratford-on-Avon is the home of only about 12,000 people, but it is famous. One of the world's great poets—William Shakespeare—was born in this town 373 years ago. Only a few hundred yards from the hotel in which I am staying is the house in which Shakespeare was born. Thousands of people from many countries visit it every year. On the second floor is a chamber known as "the birth room."

Before the house became the property of the nation, it was used as an inn, or hotel. The man who owned it used to let his guests write their names on the walls and low ceiling of the birth room. Each person who did that had to pay him a shilling (25 cents). At present, no one is allowed to write on the house, but hundreds of names are to be seen in the birth room. Some of them were scratched on the window panes.

Yesterday I paid a visit to the King Edward VI grammar school, not far from Shakespeare's boyhood home. Shakespeare went to this school, and probably entered it at the age of six or seven years. On the second floor, I was shown a large room with old desks of the kind used centuries ago. The very place where young Shakespeare had his desk was pointed out to me. Each desk in those days was wide enough for three or four pupils to use.

In the time of Shakespeare the pupils went to school in both summer and winter. The hours in winter were from dawn to dusk. During the summer, the school day started at six o'clock in the morning, and ended at six in the evening!

William studied arithmetic, writing and Latin. After he finished his studies at the grammar school he went to work, but it is not certainly known what he did for several years, but he may have been a clerk in a lawyer's office.

Tomorrow I shall tell a legend of a great trouble which is supposed to have come to Shakespeare.

New Shoes Should be Broken in Carefully

BY ANGELO PATRI
New shoes delight the heart of a child. He feels all dressed up and ready to be admired when he gets into the shiny new ones just out of the store. Even the baby loves his new shoes.

Rarely are new shoes easy on the feet. They fit tightly, closing out the air that feet must enjoy to be easy. They are stiff and tire the foot that must make so many motions inside them. They are hot and uncomfortable after a time and the child becomes fretful and irritable. "No, no, his new shoes do not hurt." Perish the thought. He might lose them. But his whining and his discontent, his apparent fatigue tell their own story. The new shoes are pinching.

This has ruined many a happy holiday, many an otherwise gay party. The new shoes need to be warmed to the feet. It should have taken on the form of the foot before being worn in public or for any length of time. Let the children break in their new shoes in the house before wearing them outside and save them and other folk many a trying hour.

Don't send a boy or a girl out to a dance, show in stiff new shoes or slippers. Get them well ahead of time and be sure to have them carefully fitted by one who understands his business. Don't make any remarks about the size of a boy's shoes. Adolescent boys are sensitive about the size of their feet and will do their best to keep them looking small. If you notice any such feeling speak in praise of large feet, mention that they always grow ahead of the body so as to be ready to support its weight as it grows.

When taking children on an all day trip, or visit, don't have them shod in shoes fresh from the shop. Don't say, "Well put these away and keep them nice until we go to see grandma." Have the child wear them for short periods in the house until they are set to his foot and he feels at ease in them, so that he forgets their glory. They can be kept nice and made comfortable at the same time.

The same thing holds about new clothes, although hardly to the same extent. New shoes tire the feet and tired feet make the whole body tired in sympathy but new dresses and suits may be a trial, too. Let the children try them on a couple of times and wear them for a short while. If there are buttons gone, or a misfit shows itself, there is time to correct the deficiency. It is distressing to discover that the new garment cannot be worn on the great day because there is something wrong with it.

Grace of movement, ease of manner, a mind and body at peace far outweigh the gloss of newness in importance. Children have not enough experience to get the idea but grown people know. Break in the new things.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

MODERATE TEMPERATURE
Cakes or cookies in which honey is used as a sweetening require a rather moderate temperature for baking. If the oven is too hot they will burn.

After you have used a chamomile skin for cleaning windows or washing the car rinse it out three times, shake it well and hang it up to dry. Pull and shake it several times while it is dry. (That will keep it soft.) Chamomile should be dried slowly—never directly in the sun or over heat.

1937 Glamor Girl to Hold 1938 Throne

BY ELSIE PIERCE
Since the 1937 glamor girl probably will hold the throne in '38, let's see what makes the 1937 glamor girl. First, we grant that we must be perfectly turned out—well-groomed in every detail of dress, coiffure, cosmetics—the whole ensemble. From that point we build to the new standards of beauty.

When Mother Was a Girl
We're practically back where mother was when she became a beauty. Looking at her picture now and comparing notes, the accented bosom, the pinched in waist, the rounded hips, the plumed hats, the lace mittens, the high coiffures—all look quite all right to us. Yet a few years ago these details looked askew. Our viewpoint seems to change, to keep pace with Fashion's cycle. Look through the Fashion magazines today and you see today's beauty resembling ever so closely the belle of the turn of the century. Modernized, of course, glamorized, glorified; but just about the same grand lady.

Plumes, veils, soft velvets, luscious antelope or reindeer—rich fabrics, riotous colors. That's the picture of the romantic hats this season. Under the hat, a swept up coiffure—curls, and swirls and waves—and there is more accent on femininity in the high, beautifully molded bosom—emphasis achieved by cleverly cut undergarments, and as cleverly cut and draped and detailed outer garments too. More accent on the pinched-in-waist in frocks with "that corseted look." And shorter skirts to show a shapely feminine leg; trim ankles; diaphanous silk hose or net or embroidery.

A peaches and cream complexion and pink and white make-up, pale hands and pink tips, bracelets and jewels are part of the 1937 glamor girls picture. Yes, she's very much dressed up and glorified, pretty, proudly so.

Now, the girl who wishes to marry should bear several important things in mind. The first is her own attitude, which should be willing but not too anxious; a sort of I-can-take-you-or-leave-you pose, if you get what I mean, with a suggested undertone that it is only his peculiar fascinations that would make her willing to give up her

And still other mothers entertain all of their daughters' beaux themselves, and the Boy Friend has to say all he has to say within earshot of Papa and Grandma and the little brothers and sisters. One of the reasons why there has been such a decline and fall off in marriage is because there are no shut doors behind which a suitor can pop the question in privacy.

Choose your profession with one eye on the job and the other on matrimony. A trained nurse can always marry either the young doctor or the patient. A private secretary also has the inside track of all other girls. Any girl who can't marry the man she works with is too dumb to waste words on.

Don't run with a beauty if you are homely, or a vivacious and witty one if you are quiet and demure. You have got to be a habit with the men you know and they don't even see you any more. Go to some strange town where you will be a novelty and all of your little bag of tricks will be new. There is a reason why the visiting girl always gets a rush and generally a husband.

scars a man off and makes him feel that a girl is pursuing him. Yet, on the other hand, no man ever notices a girl until she has seen him first and indicated that she found him strangely interesting and attractive.

Sometimes she was too eager. Sometimes she was standoffish. Both tactics are equally fatal. It is eternally true that nothing attracts a man so much as a girl who is not too eager, and who lives and dies unappropriated blessings.

This is the more strange because observations show that the married women in any community have no more beauty, nor intelligence, nor charm than their spinster sisters. And so it leads us to the inevitable conclusion that when the woman who wants to marry doesn't marry, it is because there was something wrong with her technique. She didn't know how to play the game.

Consider that, according to statistics, there are a million and a half more men than women in these United States, it would seem that every woman who wanted a husband would have no difficulty in getting one. Such, alas, however, is not the case. In a land overflowing with bachelors there are millions of women just dying to get married but who never make the grade and who live and die unappropriated blessings.

Many other girls are kept from marrying by their families. Some have mothers who give every young man who comes to the house such a frosty welcome that he gets cold feet and never returns. Others have possessive mothers who break off every budding love affair because they want to keep their darlings for themselves. Others have mothers who try so hard to sell them to every man that they arouse suspicions in the masculine breast and make the Boy Friend wonder why Mother is so anxious to get rid of such a paragon.

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister is just home from a visit to see her not-yet fiancé. Mother claims that sister's easy attitude will probably soon change the hopeful "not-yet" to the final "never-will-be." But naturally sister thinks she is right and that mother is a Victorian prig. But as I'm growing up very fast and only a few years behind sister, I'd like to get some of these questions on this subject straightened out in my mind. To begin with, sister went, on the man's invitation, to stay at the hotel in his town. He lives at his club and his family does not live there at all. When sister arrived he said that he had not engaged her a room at the hotel because some friends of his wanted him to bring her to their house for the week-end. Apparently she said "Fine!" and had a grand time. But mother is terrible upset that her daughter should have no sense of dignity. Sister just laughs and says she'd never get anything except "left" if she took advice from Mother. I don't know what I think because in a way both seem right. I hope you'll tell me which one you think is right about this question.

Answer: I think I understand exactly what you mean by thinking both are right. I agree that your mother is right on principle, and right according to good taste, and she is on the right side of a winning average. On the other hand, it may very well turn out that your sister is right in knowing how to get what she wants—because she happens to understand this matter. The apparent answer in this case is not so much one of right or wrong as of whether wedding bells ring or not. But even if they do, your mother will not have been proved to be wrong.

Unmarried Woman Must Have Wrong Technique

BY DOROTHY DIX
Considering that, according to statistics, there are a million and a half more men than women in these United States, it would seem that every woman who wanted a husband would have no difficulty in getting one. Such, alas, however, is not the case. In a land overflowing with bachelors there are millions of women just dying to get married but who never make the grade and who live and die unappropriated blessings.

Many other girls are kept from marrying by their families. Some have mothers who give every young man who comes to the house such a frosty welcome that he gets cold feet and never returns. Others have possessive mothers who break off every budding love affair because they want to keep their darlings for themselves. Others have mothers who try so hard to sell them to every man that they arouse suspicions in the masculine breast and make the Boy Friend wonder why Mother is so anxious to get rid of such a paragon.

And still other mothers entertain all of their daughters' beaux themselves, and the Boy Friend has to say all he has to say within earshot of Papa and Grandma and the little brothers and sisters. One of the reasons why there has been such a decline and fall off in marriage is because there are no shut doors behind which a suitor can pop the question in privacy.

Choose your profession with one eye on the job and the other on matrimony. A trained nurse can always marry either the young doctor or the patient. A private secretary also has the inside track of all other girls. Any girl who can't marry the man she works with is too dumb to waste words on.

Don't run with a beauty if you are homely, or a vivacious and witty one if you are quiet and demure. You have got to be a habit with the men you know and they don't even see you any more. Go to some strange town where you will be a novelty and all of your little bag of tricks will be new. There is a reason why the visiting girl always gets a rush and generally a husband.

scars a man off and makes him feel that a girl is pursuing him. Yet, on the other hand, no man ever notices a girl until she has seen him first and indicated that she found him strangely interesting and attractive.

Sometimes she was too eager. Sometimes she was standoffish. Both tactics are equally fatal. It is eternally true that nothing attracts a man so much as a girl who is not too eager, and who lives and dies unappropriated blessings.

This is the more strange because observations show that the married women in any community have no more beauty, nor intelligence, nor charm than their spinster sisters. And so it leads us to the inevitable conclusion that when the woman who wants to marry doesn't marry, it is because there was something wrong with her technique. She didn't know how to play the game.

the dark ships
BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: Neill, a young federal agent, finds his beloved Janet locked in a cabin on Fanning's yacht at Abscon Harbor. With her are a gun and Fanning's freshly shot body. Neill hides her nearby in a disused locker, then joins Mark Bommer, local investigator. Neill learns Janet didn't shoot the flashy swifter. He suspects queer little Eyster, who hated Fanning. Also in the picture are Kettering, a Baltimore lawyer down to fish, and Ira Buckless, a tough who trails Neill. Bommer leads a search of the dark ships. Neill leaves the searching party, reaches Janet's suite and together they slip into the dark corridors to hide.

Chapter 20
The Dumbwaiter
THEY crouched on the principal stairway, listening for sounds from above. A close heavy silence lay on the ship that was like a weight on their breasts. Neill searched for Janet's hand in the dark and pressed it.
"Jan, darling, I'm so sorry I got in a rage last night."
She leaned against him. "That was nothing, Neill."
"But it was! If I hadn't been such a fool, this wouldn't have happened."
"Don't!" she whispered. "I can't bear to hear you blame yourself!"
"Everything you said was right, Jan. There was a man hidden in the clothes closet of your cabin on the yacht. We found evidence of it today."
"Then you know now that I didn't shoot Fanning?"
"I know it--not that it makes any difference to me."
She kissed him.
After what seemed like an age, they heard doors opening above them in the ship, and subdued voices. The searchers had entered the restaurant on A deck. They did not pause, but came down the stairs. Nor did they linger on B deck. Evidently the plan of searching the vessel had been changed. Neill and Janet had to snatch up their belongings and run on down in a hurry. At one moment Bommer was so close to them that they heard him say:
"If we cornered them in the hold of the vessel, a desperate man might shoot. It's better to work from the bottom up. We'll force them out into the open on deck."
Hand in hand, Neill and Janet flew down the stairs as silently as if they had been on wings--to D deck and on to E deck. In the grand saloon they distributed their impedimenta amongst the other filter, hoping that it would not be too closely examined, and ran across the immense room, keeping only Janet's clothes and the precious food and water. As the pantry door swung to behind them, Bommer's light showed around the bend of the stairs.
Running across the pantry, they entered the corridor between the bakery and cold storage rooms. As they came into the galley beyond, a door on the other side opened and a light showed through. They drew back with the cold hand of fear on their breasts.
"It's no use," whispered Janet. "We're caught between them!"
"Back this way," said Neill.
In the pantry, he switched on his light and cast it desperately around. In the middle of the room a dumbwaiter rested on a table with its ropes disappearing into a shaft overhead.
"It's a chance!" said Neill. "Quick! Into it!"
"There's not room for two!" gazed Janet.
"I stand on top!"
The dumbwaiter had a hinged shelf. Janet crept into it, pressing the shelf up, and Neill climbed on top. The contraption had never been designed to lift such a weight.

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
THIS is the story of the Lawrence college 1937 homecoming football game with Ripon college, a game that ended 7 to 7 but which followers of the Vikes feel was as good as victory. And at the top of this paragraph you'll find the lineups with the names of the Vikes gridders who performed, stout fellows who did something few people dreamed was possible.

You'll find a complete turnabout from an exhibition a week ago, fellows who battled every minute and to whom we offer apologies for any cracks made in the last week about their lack of spirit and fight.

In that lineup you'll find Lawrence ends who seldom were taken out on plays, who forced the Ripon interference and ball carriers to run wide, who got down the field on punts faster than we ever imagined and who played 60 minutes of ball.

You'll find the names of several tackles who battled their heads off, who often times broke through much heavier line and one of whom, only a sophomore, should become as great a tackle as Lawrence ever had.

You'll find a couple guards who were far outweighed but who forgot all about that as they knifed through the Ripon line, harassed passers, got down low or went over the top as the occasion might demand. And you'll find a center who played the game following the ball on defense, turning open eyes into plays and laying down in front of the Crimson interference so that it piled up higher than and with as many results as a train wreck.

Vike Back Outstanding
Among the backfielders you'll find one young fellow who was the standout ball carrier on the field all afternoon, who continually had the crowd on edge and was a terrific pain in the side of Ripon.

You'll find another fellow who played the longest he's played in several weeks and who ran the ball exceptionally well despite a foot that caused him to limp with every step. You'll find another fellow who's very much a rookie in this football business who stayed in there almost all afternoon despite an early injury that caused him to hobble about often, and another chap who only recently joined the squad, who performed the best we've ever seen him on pass days and whose plunging savarai times took him out into wide open spaces.

These Vikings Saturday thought nothing about the difference in weights, they thought nothing of several injured regulars on the bench, nothing of handicaps and such—only to tackle hard, one, two, three and four of them at a time, to follow the ball all the time and to fight all the harder when two of the best boys on the squad were led to the sidelines with injuries that kept them there the rest of the afternoon.

Stout fellows, those Vikings! The score was pretty much perfect when it came to describing the

'Twas A 7-7 Tie

Lawrence college held Ripon to a 7-7 tie Saturday afternoon in the feature attraction of the Vikings' homecoming program and a battle that showed Lawrence at its best this season despite injuries and being outplayed. In the upper picture Oly Novakowski, No. 27, is getting started on one of his many grand-gaining jaunts while Mike Callo, No. 32, is taking care of Ed Krause, No. 52, a Neenah youth, Roger Fischer, Lawrence center, No. 22, is at the extreme left while an unidentified Ripon player is coming up from the rear.

Eastern College Sports Brought Under One Head

11 Athletic Associations Combined in New Central Set-Up

BY SID FEDER
NEW YORK—(AP)—Eastern collegiate athletics, involving virtually every sport, were brought under one head today in a far-reaching co-ordination of athletic seaboard competitive activities. Headed by James Lynch of Cornell, president of the Eastern Intercollegiate association, a special committee completed organization of a new set-up in eastern athletics by which 11 separate sports associations, leagues and conferences, comprising 50 colleges, are united under the directing guidance of Asa Bushnell, now graduate manager of athletics at Princeton university.

Lynch announced early today that Bushnell would retire from his post at Princeton to succeed Walter E. Olesen as E.I.A. commissioner and become "executive director" of the new "central office" in New York which will direct the organization.

Permits Coordination
"Adoption of this plan for a central office for Eastern intercollegiate athletics," he said, "permits of coordination for the first time of administration functions of the various intercollegiate associations and leagues participating in this office, with respect to the appointment of officials, arrangements for meets and harmonizing of schedules."

Largest and oldest of the 11 organizations which, although retaining independence, have joined the new set-up is the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletics of America (I.C.A.A.). This group alone contains nearly 50 colleges. Hockey Included

In addition to the I. C. A. A. and E.I.A., other organizations joining the new movement are the eastern intercollegiate basketball and basketball leagues, made up largely of "ivy" colleges; the Eastern college basketball conference, which includes Pittsburgh, Temple, Georgetown, Carnegie Tech, West Virginia and Penn State; the Intercollegiate Ice Hockey association, Quadrangular hockey league, United States section of the intercollegiate ice hockey league (Dartmouth, Harvard, Yale, Princeton), Eastern Collegiate Swimming League.

At present, no league or conference for football is contemplated, although in Lynch's announcement that the new organization would "increase efficiency and decrease cost of supervision now handled separately," and extend into new fields of activities," the possibility was seen that such an eventuality may result.

Koehn Shines for Flying Dutchmen in 12-0 Victory Over Electric City Brews

LITTLE CHUTE—In one of the cleanest grid battles ever played between Little Chute and Kaukauna, the Flying Dutchmen played the Electric City Brews to a 12-0 victory Sunday and whitewashed the Kaws before a large crowd here.

Koehn was outstanding for the Dutchmen and scored both touchdowns on wide end runs behind some hard blocking by his mates. He did most of the punting until he suffered a leg injury and was taken from the game. Koehn is not expected to show against the Appleton Reds Wednesday at Kimberly.

Little Chute used its second squad during most of the fray and substituted only veterans when necessary. Hartjes, Patrick, Vassenberg and VanLangelt carried the brunt of the battle and opened the way for Koehn's markers in the second and fourth periods.

Little Chute kicked off to the Kaws and Block was downed on his own 15-yard marker to open the battle. The first quarter developed into a pitched battle with the ball staying in mid-field most of the time. Each made one first down during the quarter.

Both teams played easy games in the second quarter, each watching for a break to get into pay territory. The first break came when Vassenberg intercepted a pass thrown by Block and was downed on the 40. Koehn kicked to the Kaw 5-yard line and Block's return kick when to the 30. An end run by Koehn behind Hartjes and Patrick netted 20 yards and on the next play Koehn again circled end and scored. The kick for the point was wide.

VanLangelt returned the kickoff to his own 30 to open the second half. After an exchange of punts the ball was downed in the Kaw 40-yard marker. A long pass, Lammers to Hartjes, was downed by Grisman on the 20. A flat pass from VanLangelt to Hartjes netted nine yards. Egan ended the threat when he intercepted a pass on his own 8-yard line.

Block attempted a quick kick but the whole Little Chute line swarmed all over him and the ball went to the Dutchmen on the 20 when Hartjes recovered. After two line plunges, Koehn flashed around end and scored the second Little Chute touchdown. He was hit by half the Brewer team and went over the goal line with his jersey ripped to shreds. A pass for the point was incomplete. During the remaining minutes, a Block fumble was recovered by the Dutchmen who were forced to kick. The Kaws launched a passing attack in a futile attempt to score as the game ended.

The lineup: Little Chute Jansen, I.E. VanHandel, LT. VanGrinsven, LG. Lammers, RC. VanLangelt, G. L. VanHandel, RT. Koehn, QB. Patrick, LH. Hartjes, RH. Wassenberg, FB. Grisman. Substitutions: Little Chute, VanDyke, G. Hartjes, W. VanHandel, Wynboom, VanLangelt; Kaukauna, Kobs, Deering, Dery, E. Jirikowic, Hopfinger, Referee, Hammer, Jordan; umpire, Miron, St. John.

MENASHA — The Bluejays of Menasha figuratively doused a bucket of water on Shawano's undisputed claim to the football championship of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference Saturday afternoon when they held the Indians to a scoreless tie on Butte des Morts field.

Because of the deadlock Shawano clinched the title, but the Indians' perfect record of straight victories until Saturday held intact, was spoiled by the hapless Bluejays.

At no time during the game did the Indians look like a championship team; in fact, the picture would have been reversed had not Menasha's persistent failure, the lack of punch to score when in the shadows of the uprights, continued to dog the Bluejays Saturdays.

Final Home Game
Playing their final home game of the season, the Menasha gridders nearly upset Shawano's title aspirations three times during the conflict while completely stopping the champions.

On three different occasions, the Bluejays staged drives deep into Shawano's territory, and once during the game reached the 5-yard line with several downs left to reach the goal. During the rest of the time the Bluejays literally pushed the champions all over the gridiron.

Shawano absolutely failed to stage one serious threat, despite the fact that the Indians had several Kimberly—The Green Bay Annunciation parochial grade school gridders, tangled with the Holy Name gridders, at the ball park Sunday afternoon and rolled up touchdown after touchdown, to defeat Coach Bud Striet's midgets by a score of 40 to 7. In the last few minutes of play the Holy Name midgets, scored on a long pass to Van Dyke who also converted the point after touchdown.

"Red" Wagner, a four-foot lad, who is in the sixth grade and eleven years of age, played half back position during the last quarter for the Green Bay lads. Red had the entire crowd pulling for him to score a touch-down and he obliged.

During the half the crowd surged to the fence to listen to the Packard-Detroit game over a car radio. The crowd, mostly Green Bay fans, let out a wild whoop when Hinkle went over for the second Packard touchdown.

Suhlrdreher Will Speak At H. S. Coaches Clinic

Harry Suhlrdreher, athletic director at Wisconsin university, will head the speaking program at the Wisconsin High School Coaches clinic Thursday at the state teachers convention in Milwaukee.

Over 800 coaches attended the meeting last year and 1,000 are expected this year. R. T. Cook, Williams Bay, will speak on 6-man football, John Walsh, boxing coach at Wisconsin university, will give an actual demonstration on how to teach boxing, and a round table discussion will be opened on track, basketball and hockey.

OSEN, STRAUBEL GET "L" BLANKETS

An added feature of the Lawrence homecoming program Saturday afternoon at Whiting field was the presentation of "L" blankets to Cliff Osen, DePere, left, and James Straubel, Green Bay, center, for athletic accomplishments while in Lawrence. Both men graduated last June. The presentation was made between halves of the Ripon-Lawrence football game by Dr. Thomas N. Barrows, president of the college. The blanket goes to any senior man winning six major sports awards or five major awards and one minor award. Straubel won three letters in football and basketball while Osen won nine, three each in football, basketball and track. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Carl Kobussen Intercepts Pass To Start March

Returns From Neenah 35 To 8 and Later Scores Touchdown

BY BILL DOWLING
KAUKAUNA — Scoring in four line plunges from the 8-yard line after running back an intercepted pass early in the second quarter Carl Kobussen, Kaw full-back, gave his team a 7-0 victory over Neenah in a homecoming tilt here Saturday afternoon. A place kick by Giordana was good for the extra point. Up to the time of the interception neither team had seriously threatened, and neither goal line was approached for the rest of the contest.

The Kaws reeled off two first downs the first time they got the ball. Neenah received the kickoff, gained nine yards on three plays, and punted to the Kaukauna 33. Peterson hit tackle for three and it was second and two to go when the Rockets were penalized five yards of offense. Peterson then sped around left end for 13 yards and a first down on the Neenah 46.

Threat Ends
Peterson and Kobussen gained 12 on the next two plays for the second first down, but the Kaw threat ended when Peterson's pass to McCormick was incomplete, and Neenah took the ball on its own 20. Neenah promptly made two first downs in a row, Haertl picking up 12 yards for the first and Johnson and Kettering gaining 13 for the second. Here the Kaw line held and the Rockets were forced to kick.

The Kaws could do nothing, however, and punted back. Neenah having the ball on its own 38 as the quarter ended.

Here Haertl and Meyer each lost a yard before Haertl's attempted aerial was intercepted by Kobussen on the 35 and returned to the Neenah eight. Three plunges placed the ball a half yard from the goal, and on the fourth Kobussen barely squeezed over for the touchdown.

Neenah came back to take the kickoff to its 31 from where Haertl gained nine yards in two plunges and then passed to Kettering for

Truckers Humble Two Rivers, 19-0

Moose Smith Gallops 55 Yards for the Third Touchdown

Clintonville—The FWD Truckers defeated Two Rivers, 19 to 0 here Sunday. The visitors were completely outclassed by the heavier FWD team. Two Rivers had little to show in the way of defense against the Clintonville team piled up 546 yards, the majority of it through the Two Rivers line.

Volkman, who was outstanding for the Truckers, scored the first marker in the first period on a plunge. The second marker came in the third quarter when J. Pinkowsky passed to E. Kemmer in the end zone. Volkman made the point. The third tally came in the final period with Moose Smith, substitute fullback, galloping 55 yards.

The FWD team has not been scored on this year. It will meet Merrill at that city next Sunday in a return game.

MADISON — (AP) — Two weeks of uninterrupted practice for the Purdue game lay ahead as the University of Wisconsin football squad took a holiday today, the first week-day off they have had since early in September. Coach Harry Stuhldreher ordered the rest after the Badgers suffered a 14 to 6 defeat in a game with Northwestern here Saturday. It was the first setback Wisconsin has suffered in three Big Ten contests, although they had taken an even worse drubbing a week earlier from Pittsburgh, a non-conference opponent.

"Northwestern was just too good for us," Stuhldreher said. "Our boys played the best game they could, but it just wasn't good enough." The Wisconsin squad will start practice for Purdue's visit on Nov. 13 tomorrow afternoon, with a likelihood that Erwin Windward, veteran quarterback, and other ailing members will recover fully in time to take part in the last two games scheduled. The Badgers go to Minneapolis to meet Minnesota's chastened Gophers Nov. 20.

Wildcats Best Team
If there were any doubting Thomases in the crowd of 30,000 who saw the Northwestern-Wisconsin clash, the statistics leave no room to doubt that the Wildcats were the best team. The Big Ten title defenders ripped big holes in the Wisconsin, smothered the Badgers' aerial attack by burying the passes, and showed inferiority only in handling the ball.

Northwestern's gain of 276 yards by rushing and 41 yards on passes accounted for 17 first downs. The Badgers' net gain by rushing was 81 yards, on four completed passes and 49 yards, and their sustained drives accounted for only five first downs. Northwestern tried only four passes, while Wisconsin attempted 11.

Neither team showed much punting skill. Wisconsin's kicks averaged 35 yards and Northwestern's 24. The Badgers slowly made several breaks for themselves by recovering fumbles, three of which were made by Bernard Jefferson, husky Negro halfback, but only one did they profit directly. That was immediately before their second quarter touchdown.

Heap Plunges Over
Captain Don Heap put Northwestern in the lead mid-way in the first quarter with a touchdown plunge from the five yard line after he led a long march down the field. Nick Conteas, quarterback, kicked the extra point.

Wisconsin's aerial attack, with which it has consistently harassed the Wildcats in recent years, sparkled just long enough in the second quarter to give the Badgers a touchdown. Ed Hartman, reserve quarterback, threw a 15-yard pass to Bill Schmitz, halfback, caught in the end zone. Fullback Howard Weiss kicked wide on the try for extra point.

The final Northwestern score climaxed a sustained drive from its own 31 yard line. Jay Laskay, fullback, carried the ball on the scoring play and Conteas again kicked the extra point.

Wally Cole, acting Badger captain, suffered an arm injury during the game, but it was expected to mend quickly. Unseasonably high temperature slowed up the game.

Appleton Reds Trounce Fond du Lac Squad, 33-6

APPLETON REDS trounced Fond du Lac, 33-6, in a game played Sunday when Herbert Eggert became ruled at one slight shy of tactics and pounded the line savagely for three touchdowns in the second half. The game marked the return of Mark Catlin, former University of Wisconsin star, to the lineup and he will show with the squad against the Flying Dutchmen of Little Chute in a Fox River Valley championship tilt at Kimberly Wednesday night.

Appleton's first touchdown came on a break when Fond du Lac fumbled the kickoff on its 5-yard line and a punt was blocked with Haas falling on the ball over the goal line. The try for extra point failed.

The teams played evenly until near the end of the first half with frequent punt exchanges. Fond du Lac opened up on some of its trick laterals which failed to gain yardage. Fritz Block broke up one of the lateral plays and ran 35 yards for Appleton's second touchdown with the goal kick being blocked.

Fond du Lac's only marker came on a series of end runs and long passes to the Appleton 20-yard line. Another pass netted six points and the attempted conversion was blocked. Faris and Aspatore starred for Fond du Lac with end runs for long gains.

Fritz Block, J. Clark, Mark Catlin, Reider and Tracy performed admirably in the Appleton backfield during the first half while Marx, Haas, Klutz, Don Green and Casper showed well in the line.

Reported slugging, kicking and hair pulling irked Eggert and he cut into the Fond du Lac line viciously for gains of 10 to 15 yards. Eggert piled through for three markers in the second half and Catlin kicked three points after the touchdowns.

The Reds' dressing room was said to resemble a hospital after the game with Marx, Popp and Casper showing broken teeth. Eggert a bad charity horse and J. Block and Ken Stutz with bad knees which needed being carried off the field.

Other Appleton cridders seeing action Sunday were Palmback, Verboven, Cotton, Ted Braach, Brandt and Bob Green.

Most of the squad is expected to be in condition for the tilt against Little Chute at 7:45 Wednesday evening at Kimberly and tickets are available from team members.

a pass to Westberg for eight more yards. Drucks swung around the left flank for a 23-yard sprint and Michalkiewicz galloped to the 11. An incomplete pass was followed by Finch's trip to the 5-yard line.

Menasha's aerial attack hadn't been working all afternoon. With two plays in which to cross the field five yards, the Bluejays chose to pass. Both were grounded.

Ed Walsh, Jr., Dies of Acute Heart Ailment

MERIDEN, Conn. — (AP) — Ed Walsh Jr., son of "Big Ed" Walsh and, like his father, a former Chicago White Sox pitcher, died yesterday at his parents' home after a long illness. The younger Walsh, in his early thirties, had suffered an acute heart ailment induced by chronic rheumatism. He lapsed into a coma a week ago and failed to regain consciousness.

The son of the famous pitcher began his own baseball career at Meriden high, continued it at Notre Dame and, upon his graduation, joined the White Sox.

Vikes Score in Second Quarter On Forward Pass teams. Lawrence dominated play in the first half and most of the third quarter when its speed was such that it beat the Redmen to the punch on almost every occasion. It was during the second quarter that Lawrence scored.

In the second half the game was pretty much Ripon as the heavy Crimson gridders started to wear down the Vikes and slowly but surely overpowered them, score once to even matters in the fourth period and threaten on another occasion when they moved close enough to the goal line to try a kick from placement which was low.

The first quarter featured a punting duel with first one team and then the other having the edge. Novakofski's kicking and his running back of punts was decidedly better than Ripon's although the Crimson several times almost blocked his boots and on one occasion almost smothered the kick. The Vikes also were rushing through the Ripon line and once got the ball on down on the Ripon 42 by swarming all over the kicker. Lawrence never threatened during the quarter but once moved across the center of the field into Ripon territory.

The first minutes of the second period saw Lawrence again cross the center. After an exchange of punts the Crimson kicked to Lawrence on the south side of the field, apparently out of bounds. But when the ball hit it bounded straight into the air and Novakofski, sensing the Crimson was loafing getting down the field, grabbed the ball and kited it up the sidelines to the Ripon 48 before he was heaved out of bounds. It was a 30-yard return. And then things started to happen.

Hallquist busted through the middle of the line for 17 yards, then picked upon another good sized gain when he ran off a pass formation and then Novakofski brought a first down by inches on the 29. It was not a continuous march for there were several times when the Vikes lost on plays and a couple times on penalties.

Crawford Scores
Soon Novakofski staged another gallop that brought the ball to the 11-yard marker. A pass was incomplete. Oby plunged to the 6 and then to the 4 and Ripon's forward wall braced. The Vikes were stepped a couple times but were not to be denied and when Nystrom took a direct pass from center, started a plunge, passed to Novakofski who dropped back and pitched a pass directly into Crawford's hands while diving across the goal line.

The Vikings had a touchdown and the field rang with Lawrence yells. But Grode then stopped up and booted a perfect kick from placement but the play cost Bill Masterson, a big Lawrence tackle, for he caught a shoe or knee in the kidney and was carried off the field.

After the kickoff Ripon sweeps and runs picked up yardage and a wobbly punt put Lawrence back within its own 10-yard line for a minute to go but the Vikes stalled away the minute instead of trying a punt from behind their own goal line.

When play was resumed after the half intermission, Lawrence again took the upper hand aided by a 15 yard penalty which put the Crimson back on its own 15. On the punt out Lawrence got a break when Novakofski fumbled a punt and a Ripon man caught it in the air and the play was called back because both sides were offside. When the Vikes regained the ball on the Ripon 33 they marched about 11 yards but lost the ball on an attempted pass on fourth down, not such good strategy. The harm was not great, however, for Galke immediately recovered a Ripon fumble.

Open With Passes
With the period pretty well along and Ripon on its own 28, the Crimson suddenly discovered that Vande Walle couldn't get around so well on that bad foot of his and started heaving passes into his territory. Several clicked before Buesing was rushed into the game and the Crimson continued its march to the 19 where Rex Fischer, center, intercepted one and Lawrence got the ball.

Nothing exceptional happened the remainder of the period but from then on Lawrence showed the effects of his efforts and the game was decidedly Ripon. If the Vikes had been able to get off a long punt to shove Ripon back about that time the results might have been different, but the big Redmen were getting through the Vike line and punting was becoming a hazardous job.

The Redmen opened the last quarter with the ball on the Lawrence 36 and then started a march that resulted in their only score. With Strickler either running or passing to Rock, the Redmen moved to the 2-yard line from where Strickler went over. A kick for the point was good.

The remainder of the game was all in Lawrence territory but it was the best proof of the day that those Vikings were stout fellows. They didn't fold up after the touchdown or in the face of a desperate Crimson drive that took the ball to the 4-yard line where a placekick was low. Those Vikings stazed the greatest part of the afternoon during those final minutes and once forced Ripon to try twice to gain six inches and a first down.

Stout fellows, those Vikes.

Marquette to Prepare For Villanova Battle

NOTRE DAME COMES BACK TO UPSET MINNESOTA

Rudy Gmitro (left foreground), Minnesota half, brought down Nevin McCormick, Notre Dame right half, as the Irish marched to the touchdown that won the tilt for them, 7 to 6. McCormick is on the ground with the ball (arrow) tucked under his arm. No. 73 is Beinor, Irish tackle; No. 83, Shelloz, Notre Dame tackle; No. 49, Ray King, Minnesota end; No. 70, Midler, Minnesota tackle.

Mickey Cochrane May be All Through as Catcher

NEW YORK — (AP) — Henry Armstrong may never defend the featherweight title he won from Pete Sarroon the other night. . . . Henry has a lot more trouble making the weight than most of you suspect. . . . He'll "trade" on the championship in a few over-the-weight bouts, then abdicate (as Barney Ross did) and go after the lightweights. . . . If big Hank Greenberg knows what he is talking about, Mickey Cochrane will never catch another major league game. . . . Attention, Florida: you'll see War Admiral at Hialeah this winter. . . . George Bannan, official timekeeper at New York fights as long as anybody can remember, is in a hospital with pneumonia.

Maxie Rosenbloom is planning a European tour and just to make the picture complete his bookie agent is a W. K. screen comedian. . . . This department had a tough day picking football winners Saturday. . . . Score was, 10 won 7 lost 3 tied. . . . Teams which "done us wrong" in a big way were Auburn, Detroit, Minnesota, Illinois and North Carolina. . . . But we're still taking bows for being one of the two or three guys who picked Georgia Tech to beat Vandy. . . . And if you want another tip, Tennessee may get its ears pinned back by Auburn Saturday. . . .

Ed Barrow, general manager of the Yanks and Damon Runyon, the author are off for a hunting trip to Tom Yawkey's South Carolina ranch. . . . Benney Leonard has a likely looking lightweight in "Irish Eddie" Dunn, of Scranton, Pa. . . . John Montague, the golf mystery man, stole the show at the Cotton club last night. . . . Along state street in Chicago they're laying odds Tony Lazzari will pilot the Cubs in 1939. . . . believe it or not but the dressing room of the Green Bay Packers is plastered with pep talks. . . . Frank G. Menke, the sports writer, is making a hit with his Friday night broadcasts.

Those who have been accusing Minnesota of world-wide recruiting may be interested to know eight of the regular starters are natives of St. Paul and Minneapolis and that the other three come from Minnesota towns within a 100-mile radius of Minneapolis. . . . Johnny Gilbert, the jockey who bet $1,000 on Pete Sarroon felt so low Saturday he didn't show up at Empire City and was fined $500 for not keeping his appointments. . . . Charlie Dessen will have the signals of every Southern club after his first trip around the circuit.

Coaches needing a real kicker might look over Bruno Konopka of Manual Training high school at Denver. . . . All he did was boot one 132 yards. . . . Standing two yards behind his goal line, he kicked one 77 yards on the fly. . . . The ball hit the other side's 25 yard line, took a tremendous hop and bounced over the goal line, rolled through the end zone and finally was halted by a flag pole 30 yards behind the goal line. . . . The kid is a nifty first sacker and has been offered contracts by Detroit and Cleveland. . . . (Tip: Southern California is his favorite college) . . . no change in Rose Bowl choices over the weekend. . . . They're still Alabama and California.

Tranavitch Leads Nation's Scorers

Adds 28 Points Against Lehigh Saturday for 78 Total

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

By adding 28 points to his previous total over the week-end, Bill Tranavitch, sophomore halfback of Rutgers' football machine, was at the head of the nation's individual scoring parade today.

Tranavitch ran wild against luckless Lehigh Saturday, scored four touchdowns and four extra points, boosted his season scoring total to 78 points and took the national lead away from Andy Parkes of Detroit.

Farkas, shut out of the scoring column against Villanova, was cut from the top of the midwestern "independent" group as Wayne Sholey of Augustana (S. D.) college added a touchdown to his previous total to take the sectional lead with 68 points, two more than "Anvil Andy."

Of the various conferences, the top figure was the 62 points tallied by Byron (Buzz) White, Colorado quarterback, in the Rocky Mountain conference. He scored three touchdowns and three extra points Saturday.

Corby Davis of Indiana held his big Ten lead with 30 points.

Clarence Douglass of Kansas, took the leadership in the Big Six with the lowest number of points on the list, 22.

16 Major Teams Boast Unbeaten Records in 1937

Race for Rose Bowl Game Nomination Still Is Wide Open

NEW YORK—(AP)—Heading in to the November stretch, 16 major football teams still have eluded defeat, but the race for the mythical national championship as well as for the very real Rose Bowl game nominations still is wide open.

California's Golden Bears look like a safe odds-on bet to represent the far west in the Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena on New Year's day, but the field of eligible opponents is large enough to allow plenty of room for speculation.

Assuming that the Rose Bowl invader will come from the south or the east, Alabama's crimson tide, current stand-out in the Southeastern conference; Duke's Blue Devils, Southern conference power, and Pittsburgh, Fordham, Villanova and Dartmouth all can be reckoned as still definitely in the running. Pitt and Alabama are "veteran" Rose Bowl contenders.

Unbeaten List
Although the undefeated list, lacking the presence this week of Vanderbilt, North Carolina, Detroit, Auburn and Western (Colorado) State, adds up to 16, only seven of these have escaped ties. Here's the undefeated line-up of so-called major teams:

East—Lafayette, unbeaten, untied and unscored on: Pitt, Fordham, Dartmouth, Holy Cross, Villanova, Yale, and Temple, all tied at least once.

Midwest—Nebraska, tied once.

Southwest—Baylor, unbeaten and untied.

South—Alabama, unbeaten and untied; Texas, tied once.

Far west—California, Santa Clara and Montana, all unbeaten and untied.

Rocky Mountain—Colorado, unbeaten and untied.

St. John Eleven to Play St. Norbert High Squad

Little Chute—The St. John High school football team will travel to DePere Tuesday afternoon to meet the St. Norbert High school grid-ders.

The St. Norbert team this season has played a scoreless tie with St. Catherine's of Racine, defeated Secor's of Green Bay and lost to Sturgeon Bay.

Hochrein, who scored both touchdowns to beat St. John 12-7 last year, and De Bruin, rangy end, are standouts in the St. Norbert attack.

St. John will play host to Edgewood High school of Madison here next Sunday, Nov. 7.

Packers, but the Redskins have served notice that they cannot be counted out of the title running, despite two defeats.

They scalped Brooklyn 21 to 0 yesterday for a fifth victory and Baugh, the Texas Christian graduate whose passing has been a feature of the campaign, scored one touchdown and paved the way for a second with a long aerial to Riley Smith. Washington took a lead on a first period touchdown and scored twice in the third stanza. The victory left the Redskins in second place in the eastern division.

A crowd of 25,000 at Detroit saw Green Bay's Packers nose out the Detroit Lions 14 to 13 in stick in the title fight, Ernie Smith's successful kick for the extra point providing the margin of victory.

Dutch Clark scored twice before the Packers counted. Then Green Bay tallied on Ed Jankowski's 30 yard jaunt after a blocked punt and won when Clark Hinkle scored after a 60-yard Packer drive.

Goodman Only Favorite Left in Mexico Tourney

Mexico City—(AP)—Johnny Goodman, United States Amateur golf champion, was the only favorite still competing, as the Mexican Amateur championship entered the semi-final round today.

Today's card pitted Goodman against Ed Applod, Mexico City to choose: 257 Roberts, 270, 7 mm., 30-40 Krag, 303 British, 300 Savage, 30-06, and 300 Magnum.

Soft-skinned game, such as deer and antelope, can best be dispatched with light-weight, high velocity, quick-expanding bullets, which impart a tremendous shock to the nervous system. In other words, the light or reasonably light weight bullets at high velocity should always be used for long range deer shooting. For best results, the 100-grain bullet should be used in the 257; the 150-grain bullet in the 300 Savage; 130-grain in 270; 139 in 7 mm.; 180 in 30-40 and 300 Magnum; 150-grain in the 30-06; and 174 in the 303 British.

First quality bolt rifles include Winchester M.70, Remington 30-S, Sedgley Springfield Sporter with fast ignition and the new Sedgley safety firing pin, the Krag, Mauser, and Mannlicher-Schoenauer. The most desirable practical calibers for long range deer shooting, everything considered, are the 270 and the 30-06; at short to medium range, the 250-300 and 257 are excellent but their maximum effective range is between about 250 to 300 yards. Such calibers as the 300 Savage, 30-40, and 303 British really are suitable only for medium range but nevertheless have included them. For extremely long range, the 300 Magnum with the pointed 180-grain bullet is by all odds the best if we disregard recoil and the excessive weight of the arm.

Such calibers as the 25-35, 30-30, 25 Remington, 32 Special, and 35 Remington should be scrupulously avoided for long range shooting. The true sportsman always employs a rifle with a surplus of power out where the game is and strives to kill his trophies with a single, well-placed shot, thus insuring the minimum of suffering.

Santa Clara Uses Aerial Attack in Conquering M. U.

Two Major Wisconsin Schools Drop Important Grid Tills

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE University of Wisconsin suffered its first Big Ten conference defeat and Marquette dropped an important intercollegiate contest in the state's headline grid-iron attractions Saturday.

Northwestern's power proved too much for the Badgers who lost by a count of 14 to 6, making six first downs to the Wildcats' 17. Santa Clara launched a surprise aerial attack on the Hilltoppers, and scored 38 points against the Milwaukee team which was unable to cross the Broncos' goal line.

Beloit loses
Ripon and Lawrence battled to a 7 to 7 tie, while Beloit dropped a one-sided decision to Coe college, of Cedar Rapids Ia., 27 to 7. Carroll had an open date.

Superior Teachers took Dubuque college, 32 to 6, and La Crosse teachers downed St. Mary's college, of Winona, Minn., 13 to 0, in non-conference games. Eau Claire and Stout institute played to a 6 to 6 tie in the only Teachers' conference game.

In other non-conference games, Whitewater Teachers beat Jordan college, 14 to 7, and the River Falls Reds toppled Michigan Tech by a count of 9 to 0. Ironwood Junior college dropped a close contest to the Northern Michigan Teachers, 3 to 0.

business man, while two Texans, Blain McNutt of El Paso and Don Schumacher of Dallas made up the other half of the round.

A Rivero, a local golfer, forced Goodman to top golf in the morning round and he had to go all out to shade Dick Hauts, of Houston, Tex., 1 up in the quarter finals.

300 Mill Workers Attend Meeting

Sentiment Favors Organization of Independent Union

Kimberly—About three hundred Kimberly mill employees attended a meeting at the high school auditorium Sunday evening to discuss organization of a union in Kimberly.

H. J. Kokke presided at the meeting and explained that he did not blame other organizations for coming into the village, for that was their job, but said expression of sentiment show that more than 10 per cent of the Kimberly-Clark employees at Kimberly favored an independent union.

He declared that only a small group of men disapproved. The speaker asked those present, which union they favored, and the result showed that the men in the Kimberly mill want to organize a union of their own.

Elderly Man Wards Off Gipsy Women Who Insist on 'Telling His Fortune'

Manawa—John Ritchie will be 89 years old Nov. 17, but he can still take care of any bold gypsies who may come around.

He and Mrs. Ritchie spent the last several weeks visiting with friends and relatives in the state. It was while they were at the home of their son-in-law, Reuben Holeman, who lives on Highway 22 between Waupaca and Wild Rose, that Mr. Ritchie encountered the gypsies.

Accustomed to exercise because of an active life in the outdoors, Mr. Ritchie habitually takes long walks each day. It was during one of these strolls in front of the Hole-man farm that a big car drew up beside him.

A woman sprang out and walked towards him, pleading, "Meester, Meester, let me tell your fortune."

With considerable emphasis, Mr. Ritchie told her he wasn't interested and suggested that she return to her car and drive on. A second woman then alighted from the machine, leaving a man at the wheel, and both pleaded with him.

One woman pressed forward and grasped Mr. Ritchie's coat lapel. With that he lost his patience.

Raising the heavy walking stick he carried, Mr. Ritchie warned them that if they didn't stop bothering him, someone was liable to be hurt.

Sensing that Mr. Ritchie meant what he said and would have little trouble carrying out his threat, despite his age, the Gypsies quietly drove away, returned to their car, and drove away.

Besides visiting Mr. and Mrs. Holeman, the Ritchies stayed at the homes of Roland Mallory, Merengo, and William McFetridge, Medford, during their trip.

PETTIBONE'S

DO AMERICA'S FLIERS APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS?

YOU bet they do! In aviation is one of the most loyal groups of Camel smokers in the country. For example, the famous transcontinental record holder, Col. Roscoe Turner, smokes Camels. So do test-pilot Lee Gehlbach, Capt. Frank Hawks, and TWA's chief pilot, Hal Sneed—to mention only a few. As Col. Turner puts it: "I guess you've noticed that men in aviation are great smokers. And, from what I see, most fliers share my regard for Camels. They need healthy nerves. That's one big reason why so many of us stick to Camels."

And many millions of Americans—more people than smoke any other cigarette in the world—give a hearty o-kay to Camels!

WINIFRED CASTLE works long hours at her editorial desk—smokes a lot. She says: "I can smoke as many Camels as I please and they never get on my nerves."

WARREN PIAGET, crack salesman, drives 50,000 miles—and more—a year. "I get tired," he says. "And I think it's swell the way Camels give me a 'lift'."

PETER KILLIAN is a news photographer. His slant: "Camels are always with me—especially at the table. Camels help my digestion to keep clicking."

EDWARD HURLEY, busy architect, says: "To my way of thinking, a man doesn't really know what honest-to-goodness natural flavor means until he smokes Camels."

ED GRAFFE, gym instructor, says: "Camels set me right—and that takes in a lot of angles. I can smoke all I please without getting jangled nerves."

MARIE DRISCOLL, business girl, speaks for a good many stenographers when she says: "Camels have everything I like a cigarette to have."

GENE ENGLISH, radio engineer, notices what cigarette the stars like: "Camels seem the favorite. I smoke Camels. They don't make my throat feel scratchy."
